Guess what happened (happen) yesterday? While I was listening (listen) to some music in my room, my mom came (come) in and asked (ask) me what I would like to do in the summer vacation. Usually we go (go) camping near the beach. So now I am / 'm sitting (sit) here and thinking: What do I want to do? Summer camp with my friends or a family vacation? I 've / have never been (never / be) on vacation without my family before, but maybe my parents will fly (fly) to Paris next year. I really don't want (not / want) to miss that. I haven't been (not / be) on vacation with my friends for longer than (???) a few days before. Will it be (it / be) fun to try it this summer? There are really nice summer camps and I could go there with (???) my best friends. But, oh no, I 've / have just remembered (just / remember) our class trip! It was (be) terrible last year. Every time I tried to sleep, somebody ran (run) into our room and I woke up (wake up). But of course those days were (be) a lot of fun too. It 's / it is (be) really hard to decide. What should I do?
